

Professor John V. Petropoulos Appointed to Harvard Administrative Position

The Board of Directors and the Board of Advisors of the Center for Traditionalist Orthodox Studies would like to take this opportunity to congratulate one of the original members of the Board of Advisors, Dr. John V. Petropoulos, Associate Professor of Ancient Greek Literature at the Democritean University of Thrace, on his appointment as Chairman of the Board and Fellow in Hellenic Civilization at Harvard University's Center for Hellenic Studies in Nafplion, Greece.

Professor Petropoulos is a graduate of Harvard University and received his doctoral degree in Classics at Oxford University, where he met Archbishop Chrysostomos of Etna, then a Visiting Scholar at Oxford. He later worked with His Eminence in initiating efforts that led to the first complete English-language text of the The Evergetinos. His erudite scholarship has also appeared in the pages of Orthodox Tradition.

A book by Professor Petropoulos, Greek Magic: Ancient, Medieval and Modern, was also recently published by Routledge (Abingdon, Oxford: 2008). We congratulate him on this important accomplishment, as well.

